Staying Adaptive Through Crisis

PRESENTED BY
Francesca Gino
Tandon Family Professor of Business Administration in the Negotiation, Organizations & Markets Unit, Harvard Business School

Author, Rebel Talent: Why it Pays to Break the Rules at Work and in Life
During Today’s Session

• All attendees will be in listen-only mode
• Technical issues? Log out and log back in.
• Session is being recorded
• Questions should be submitted using the Q&A panel
• Please complete the survey that will pop up at the end of the webinar

If you experience any technical difficulties in today’s session, please send a note through the Q&A panel.
WHERE CAN YOU DISCOVER something new?
Learning for the enterprise.

Your critical challenges.

One Harvard experience.

Your critical business problems

All levels of the organization

Multiple learning formats

Global reach
Innovation shapes our future

LEARNING EXPERIENCES

Adaptive Learning

Text Messaging

Peer to Peer

AR/VR

AI Coaching

Predictive Learning

Shorter Burst Learning

New Audio Formats
Francesca Gino
James E. Robison Chair of Business Administration, Tandon Family Professor of Business Administration in the Negotiation, Organizations & Markets Unit, Harvard Business School; Author, Rebel Talent
Staying Adaptive through Crisis

Francesca Gino
Harvard Business School
@francescagino
Eel Swimming Up the Po River
Croccantino of Foie gras
Snails Under the Earth
Rebels embrace crises and adapt “Sculpting is a process whereby the artist releases an ideal figure from the block of stone in which it slumbers.”

- MICHELANGELO BUONARROTI
Coach Maurice Cheeks
Rebels make themselves vulnerable
Rebels have a talent for PERSPECTIVE
Rebels have a talent for NOVELTY
They wanted to see us dead because they didn’t want me to touch their grandmothers’ recipes.”
What changed me was the message of freedom that Ferran gave me, the freedom to feel my own fire, to look inside myself and make my thoughts edible.”
Rebels have a talent for AUTHENTICITY
Rebels have a talent for CURIOSITY
Thank you!

Contact Information

fgino@hbs.edu
@francescagino
francescagino.com

On LinkedIn
Thank you!